INSIDE SEATTLE

Handmade and heartfelt, in Ballard

Call it a one-stop shop for beautiful, handmade gifts. More than 30 artists showcase their work—look for hand-painted silk pillows, hand-decorated baby clothes, and artisan chocolates, for starters. “There are so many talented designers in Seattle, I wanted them under one roof with a great storefront presence,” says handbag designer Diane Macrae, who opened the co-op last summer in Ballard. Eight on-site artist studios allow customers to watch artists at work. “It was important to me to give emerging artists studio space in a boutique setting where they can interact with the community,” Macrae says. Go browse, buy, or get creative: Classes and workshops focus on everything from chocolate making to using your digital camera. Open Tue–Sun, by appointment Mon; call for class schedule. 5408 22nd Ave. N.W.; www.venueballard.com or 206/789-3335. —KATHY SCHULTZ
